TWIN CITIES UNITED.

With enactment of the bill providing for the tion. consolidation of Decatur and Albany, the combin ed municipalities will become a city of industrial, pressed by one of the prominent men who attendcommercial and social importance. It was a constructice move which will result in larger and more united effort for the improvement of the one city, will remove jealousies between the political and business entities and will bring together into an ing by themselves could accomplish great results, effective unit the interests of both cities. For years it was impossible for the visitor to know whether he was in Decatur or in Albany. Two city governments were maintained where one representing all interests would have been more econemica land more efficient. A large overhead expense will be eliminated by the consolidation. Commercial rivalries with more or less undersir- operation. able spirit and purpose will disappear, and the sitnation promises to accomplish much towards general expansion and improvement.

Decatur will start out with a population of something like fourteen thousand. That is a strong foundation upon which to build when the citizens are united in a common purpose. Industrially, commercially and agriculturally the city is highly favored. There is no reason why it should not erhood in action," after explaining that once Paul show marked growth in every field of worthy enties, educational facilities, home attractions and ference or repeat the controversy," says Van otherwise. THE SPIRIT OF ACCOMPLISHMENT BRINGS COMMUNITY HEALTH.

Material possessions such as belongs to the people of this section cannot contribute to increased prosperity unless there is a continuous rise in the scale of living-a demand for larger living.

In other words, if the people have no use for the products of the soil, for the minerals in the mines, for the hidden oil, or for the cattle on a thousand hills, those things of value had as well not be in existence. It has been said that real business progress comes from an intelligent endeavor to steadily raise the plane of living.

It is as important to create a demand for a thing as it is to produce the thing itself. Demands are created as people prepare themselves for higher of what we want rather than what we have.

"le greater mount has ever been from I for en language the demands of mankind and increasing for the welfare of this community.

his vision and ability to enjoy than the development of the spirit of accomplishment. If a spirit of accomplishment and progress prevades, as if by magic, there will be hundreds and thousands of people seek and desire things they never thought of before.

The spirit of accomplishment adds vigor to the intellect, insures a finer sentiment, and brings greater animation.

Those who say and appreciated a recent presentation on the screen at the Princess theatre, of Little Rock where an invalid girl was restored to health, by large treatment of wholesale excitement, easily the point. The girl in question would never have had the disire to be well, unless a certain sentiment of excitement and accomplishment had ome to her. The new physician sent to treat the ast failing girl came into her presence in a novel way, 30 as to furnish her some excitement. The doctor kent creating one excitement and another until the firl demanded her releases from the sick room. New enthusiasms cause new demands, and as demands are satisfied all will continue to improve until perfect community health, so to speak, will prevail.

UNITY PROPOSED FROM ANOTHER QUARTER; A MOVEMENT IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

The Daily but gives expression to a universal sentiment when it commends the action taken a the R. R. Y. M. C. A. meeting recently when a committee was appointed "to foster the spirit of unity, co-operation and of brotherhood in the combined community." It is of paramount import ance that this committee act promptly and with due consideration for the highest interests of every person of the community.

The first expressed object of the movement to be supported by the committee appointed is 'unity" among all the people. What more commendable or beneficial object can be sought than true unity? Everything desirable can be attained by unity of purpose, just as everything not desirable is secured by lack of unity.

There is not a person who has reached the years of understanding who has not seen the destructive, disheartening effects of discord. Nobody wants discord any more than a singer is wanted in a choir who can produce discord only. The committee in charge of the movement for unity will be sure to encourage nothing of discord and distrac-

BRITISH WOMEN READY TO FIGHT FOR RIGHTS

LONDON.-That women have been leliberately hoaxed by men lawmakers is the depening suspicion of feminist leaders in England. So strong is the feeling that a deputation representing the principal organizations to walt upon the home secretary to urge amendment of the sex disqualifiation removal act.

In the opening sentence of the act

FRINCESS FRIDAY & SATURDAY

Rex Ingram's $1,000,000 production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," made for Metro, is announc ed by the Prnicess theater beginning Friday. This will be the second showing here of the screen version of Vincente Blasco Ibanez's novel that has been acclaimed in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Los Angeles as marking a new epoch in the development of motion pictures. At its New York opening people paid $10 a seat. Critics said the picture had definitely established the screen not only as capable of rivalling the age at its best, but of surpassing it in its grip upon the emotions. Through it all are galloping the our horsemen, spoken of by St. John in the Book of the Apocalypse-the grim figures of Conquest, War, Famine and Death.

The cast includes Rodolph Valentino and Alice Terry.

The photoplay is by John Seitz, and the technical direction by Amos Myers and Joseph Calder. Walter Mayo was assistant to Rex Ingram.
